Student Registration Number

B

COURSE CODE: DENG201 COURSE TITLE: English -II

Time Allowed: 3 hours Max. Marks: 80

1. This paper contains 10 questions divided in two parts on 2 pages.

2. Part A is compulsory.

3. In Part B (Questions 2 to 10), attempt any 6 questions out of 9. Attempt all parts of the selected question.

4. The marks assigned to each question are shown at the end of each question in square brackets.

5. Answer all questions in serial order.

6. The student is required to attempt the question paper in English medium only.

Part A

Q.1.

a) Identify the following sentences:
   A. Blood is thicker than water B. Why did he treat you there?
b) Change the following sentences into negative sentences
   A. Lata is not a good singer.
   B. Did he eat anything here?
c) Write two sentences with one subject and two verbs.
d) Fill in the blanks with one of the two words given in brackets.
   A. No news ..... good news. (is/are)
   B. Fire and water ..... not agree. (do/does)
e) Write the two synonyms of each word.
   A. Abandon B. Curial
f) Write the two antonyms of each word.
   A. Bitter B. Majestic
g) Write the meaning and make one sentence of the following idioms:
   A. Maiden speech B. A square deal
h) One word substitution of the following sentences:
   A. Having an evil reputation.
   B. A minister representing a sovereign or state in a foreign country.
i) Fill correct words in the following sentences
   A. Lalita..... to me for a long time. (talked/spoke)
   B. Yesterday I..... a big bird, flying high in the sky.
j) Choose the correct alternative:
   A. How..... time is left?
      (a) Long (b) much
   B. I have..... European coach to train me.
      (a) an (b) a [10×2=20]

Part B

Q.2. Read the following passage carefully and explain it:

Day after day, day after day
We stuck, nor breath, nor motion,
As idle as a painted ship.
Upon a painted ocean. [10]

Q.3. Write an essay on one of the following topics:

- A natural disaster
- Modern method of teaching
- Unity in diversity. [10]

Q.4 Elaborate the following Precis into a 3 times longer paragraph:

In his classic short horror novel The Turn of the Screw, Henry James tells a tale concerned with a curse of evil which has permeated the lives of two beautiful children, Miles, aged ten, and Flora, eight. James reveals how the supernatural forces of two “ghosts” of former servants, steward Peter Quint and governess Miss Jessel, channel through the consciousness of a new, neurotic governess who desperately tries to protect her charges. The ghosts appear to her as real people, but are invisible to the children and the housekeeper. Her efforts with Flora succeed only in arousing the girl’s terror; in the final scene, moreover, Miles dies in her arms while the specter she tries to obliterate stands looking through the window. [10]

Q.5. How does Lahiri show, the values, that are important in a relationship? [10]

Q.6. Discuss in detail John Donne’s “The Good Morrow.” [10]

Q.7. Read the following passage and answer the Question:

The government appears to have woken up to the problem of acute agrarian distress. In a flurry of activity surrounding the prime minister's visit to Vidarbha, the government had declared its intent to seek remedies for the crisis affecting the peasantry, symbolized by the spate of farmers' suicides over the last few years. This is indeed welcome, though the response should have come sooner. Reports and studies from various sources, including government commissions, on farmers suisides and their proximate causes have analysed the issue to the bone. What was missing was concerted action on the part of the Centre.

The package being put together now recognizes that the immediate problem is not one of access to credit or the level of the interest rate (though these are indeed medium- term issues0 but of a legacy of debt that cannot be borne. Low farm gate prices, rising input cost and an adequate increases in productivity have combined to make interest and debt repayment commitments too onerous to bear. The explains the government's decision to write off debt at least in the case of marginal and small farmers, and, if the Finance Ministry agrees, to insure them against crop failure so to prevent the legacy of debt from becoming an unbearable burden for many more. These are significant steps forward. However the government also adopt policies that militates against long term redressal of the agrarian crisis that underlies farmer's distress. The first of these is a fiscal policy stance that precludes the adoption of measures that are crucial to revitalize agriculture. : Massive public investment in rural infrastructure, including irrigation, drainage and flood control; lowering of input cost through subsidies where necessary; and a hike in expenditure to restructure the provision of a host of extention and a support services to improve agricultural productivity. With the government focused on fiscal deficit reduction rather on raising India' abysmal tax-GDP ratio and expanding much needed expenditures, thse measures are being virtually ignored. Rather the emphasis, as reflected in this year's budget for example, is on increasing the flow of credit to rural areas, without recognizing why even the current limited flow has taken the farming community into a debt trap.

The second is the decision to use free imports as a means to dampen inflation. The evidence on inflation is clear. While aggregate inflation on an annual point to point basis (as measured by the official Wholesale price index) stood at just 5.24 percent over the week ending June 10, 2006, the rate of inflation in the case of individual essential commodities was much higher: Between 9 and 10 percent in the wheat, fuel and sugar and as much as 35 percent in the case of pulses.

A factor underlying these trends is long term deterioration in agricultural performances. In most cases lower demand resulting from limited purchasing power among some sections of the population has ensure that poor agricultural performance has yet to result in a short fall in supply related to demand. Even so, speculative hoarding has indeed resulted in an artificial short fall. Speculation has been added by a number of decisions of the government such as removal of control on the movements of agricultural, commodities and liberalization of rules relating to the operation of the private traders and agri-business firms, which in turn have resulted in the failure to procure adequate government stocks at the minimum support price where applicable.

The government have sort to augment supply with imports. Beside deciding February to import wheat to replenish dwindling government stocks, it has now decided to permit private actual users of wheat like flour millers biscuit manufacturers and bread makers to import wheat duty free till the next rabi harvest. It has also allow custom duty free import of sugar till the bignning of the next crushing season which start in October. And it has put a ban on exports of pulses this efforts to enhance domestic supply with import may be successful in dampening in inflationary expectations and holding the price level in the short run. But it could also adversely affect revenues garnered by the already-distressed peasantry with attended implications for private expenditure needed to sustain and improve agricultural production. E.g., Reliance on PL-480 imports in the 1950s and early 1960s, while dampening price in inflation during Second Plan Years, was partly responsible for the inadequate yield growth that preceded the aggrarion crisis of the mid-1960s.

Reliance on imports to dampen price increases can, therefore, worsen the agrarian crisis and the distressed condition of farmers in the medium term. What is needed is to directly curb speculative activities, reverse policies with regard to freer agricultural trade that have brought in large private players driven by opportunities for profit and combine this with an investment- led agricultural strategy. If not, the small relief being offered the prime minister of farmers in the worst affected areas would amount to little other than temporary relief and a declaration of concern.

a) What is the actual problem of agrarians in Vidarbha?
b) How the government can help for their redressal? Write atleast two major steps.
c) In what does the hoarding create a problem for all? Write down the solution.
d) Mention the steps initiated by the government to tackle the situation.
e) What solution has been put forth by the writer in the concluding para?
f) Find words from the above passage that are similar in meaning to the following:

i. havoc (para -1) ii. To shut off (para -3) iii. Collection (para-6 iv. Farming (para-1) [10]

Q.8. What conflict and soliloquy do you see in Chitra? Discuss. [10]

Q.9. Write down a detailed note on the story "The Blessed House" Jumpa Lahiri Bringing out its main theme. [10]

Q.10. Discuss the theme of the interpreter of Maladies. [10]

Student Registration Number

B

COURSE CODE: DENG201 COURSE TITLE: English -II

Time Allowed: 3 hours Max. Marks: 80

1. This paper contains 10 questions divided in two parts on 2 pages.

2. Part A is compulsory.

3. In Part B (Questions 2 to 10), attempt any 6 questions out of 9. Attempt all parts of the selected question.

4. The marks assigned to each question are shown at the end of each question in square brackets.

5. Answer all questions in serial order.

6. The student is required to attempt the question paper in English medium only.

Part A

Q.1.

a) Identify the following sentences:
   A. Blood is thicker than water B. Why did he treat you there?
b) Change the following sentences into negative sentences
   A. Lata is not a good singer.
   B. Did he eat anything here?
c) Write two sentences with one subject and two verbs.
d) Fill in the blanks with one of the two words given in brackets.
   A. No news ..... good news. (is/are)
   B. Fire and water ..... not agree. (do/does)
e) Write the two synonyms of each word.
   A. Abandon B. Curial
f) Write the two antonyms of each word.
   A. Bitter B. Majestic
g) Write the meaning and make one sentence of the following idioms:
   A. Maiden speech B. A square deal
h) One word substitution of the following sentences:
   A. Having an evil reputation.
   B. A minister representing a sovereign or state in a foreign country.
i) Fill correct words in the following sentences
   A. Lalita..... to me for a long time. (talked/spoke)
   B. Yesterday I..... a big bird, flying high in the sky.
j) Choose the correct alternative:
   A. How..... time is left?
      (a) Long (b) much
   B. I have..... European coach to train me.
      (a) an (b) a [10×2=20]

Part B

Q.2. Read the following passage carefully and explain it:

Day after day, day after day
We stuck, nor breath, nor motion,
As idle as a painted ship.
Upon a painted ocean. [10]

Q.3. Write an essay on one of the following topics:

- A natural disaster
- Modern method of teaching
- Unity in diversity. [10]

Q.4 Elaborate the following Precis into a 3 times longer paragraph:

In his classic short horror novel The Turn of the Screw, Henry James tells a tale concerned with a curse of evil which has permeated the lives of two beautiful children, Miles, aged ten, and Flora, eight. James reveals how the supernatural forces of two “ghosts” of former servants, steward Peter Quint and governess Miss Jessel, channel through the consciousness of a new, neurotic governess who desperately tries to protect her charges. The ghosts appear to her as real people, but are invisible to the children and the housekeeper. Her efforts with Flora succeed only in arousing the girl’s terror; in the final scene, moreover, Miles dies in her arms while the specter she tries to obliterate stands looking through the window. [10]

Q.5. How does Lahiri show, the values, that are important in a relationship? [10]

Q.6. Discuss in detail John Donne’s “The Good Morrow.” [10]

Q.7. Read the following passage and answer the Question:

The government appears to have woken up to the problem of acute agrarian distress. In a flurry of activity surrounding the prime minister's visit to Vidarbha, the government had declared its intent to seek remedies for the crisis affecting the peasantry, symbolized by the spate of farmers' suicides over the last few years. This is indeed welcome, though the response should have come sooner. Reports and studies from various sources, including government commissions, on farmers suisides and their proximate causes have analysed the issue to the bone. What was missing was concerted action on the part of the Centre.

The package being put together now recognizes that the immediate problem is not one of access to credit or the level of the interest rate (though these are indeed medium- term issues0 but of a legacy of debt that cannot be borne. Low farm gate prices, rising input cost and an adequate increases in productivity have combined to make interest and debt repayment commitments too onerous to bear. The explains the government's decision to write off debt at least in the case of marginal and small farmers, and, if the Finance Ministry agrees, to insure them against crop failure so to prevent the legacy of debt from becoming an unbearable burden for many more. These are significant steps forward. However the government also adopt policies that militates against long term redressal of the agrarian crisis that underlies farmer's distress. The first of these is a fiscal policy stance that precludes the adoption of measures that are crucial to revitalize agriculture. : Massive public investment in rural infrastructure, including irrigation, drainage and flood control; lowering of input cost through subsidies where necessary; and a hike in expenditure to restructure the provision of a host of extention and a support services to improve agricultural productivity. With the government focused on fiscal deficit reduction rather on raising India' abysmal tax-GDP ratio and expanding much needed expenditures, thse measures are being virtually ignored. Rather the emphasis, as reflected in this year's budget for example, is on increasing the flow of credit to rural areas, without recognizing why even the current limited flow has taken the farming community into a debt trap.

The second is the decision to use free imports as a means to dampen inflation. The evidence on inflation is clear. While aggregate inflation on an annual point to point basis (as measured by the official Wholesale price index) stood at just 5.24 percent over the week ending June 10, 2006, the rate of inflation in the case of individual essential commodities was much higher: Between 9 and 10 percent in the wheat, fuel and sugar and as much as 35 percent in the case of pulses.

A factor underlying these trends is long term deterioration in agricultural performances. In most cases lower demand resulting from limited purchasing power among some sections of the population has ensure that poor agricultural performance has yet to result in a short fall in supply related to demand. Even so, speculative hoarding has indeed resulted in an artificial short fall. Speculation has been added by a number of decisions of the government such as removal of control on the movements of agricultural, commodities and liberalization of rules relating to the operation of the private traders and agri-business firms, which in turn have resulted in the failure to procure adequate government stocks at the minimum support price where applicable.

The government have sort to augment supply with imports. Beside deciding February to import wheat to replenish dwindling government stocks, it has now decided to permit private actual users of wheat like flour millers biscuit manufacturers and bread makers to import wheat duty free till the next rabi harvest. It has also allow custom duty free import of sugar till the bignning of the next crushing season which start in October. And it has put a ban on exports of pulses this efforts to enhance domestic supply with import may be successful in dampening in inflationary expectations and holding the price level in the short run. But it could also adversely affect revenues garnered by the already-distressed peasantry with attended implications for private expenditure needed to sustain and improve agricultural production. E.g., Reliance on PL-480 imports in the 1950s and early 1960s, while dampening price in inflation during Second Plan Years, was partly responsible for the inadequate yield growth that preceded the aggrarion crisis of the mid-1960s.

Reliance on imports to dampen price increases can, therefore, worsen the agrarian crisis and the distressed condition of farmers in the medium term. What is needed is to directly curb speculative activities, reverse policies with regard to freer agricultural trade that have brought in large private players driven by opportunities for profit and combine this with an investment- led agricultural strategy. If not, the small relief being offered the prime minister of farmers in the worst affected areas would amount to little other than temporary relief and a declaration of concern.

a) What is the actual problem of agrarians in Vidarbha?
b) How the government can help for their redressal? Write atleast two major steps.
c) In what does the hoarding create a problem for all? Write down the solution.
d) Mention the steps initiated by the government to tackle the situation.
e) What solution has been put forth by the writer in the concluding para?
f) Find words from the above passage that are similar in meaning to the following:

i. havoc (para -1) ii. To shut off (para -3) iii. Collection (para-6 iv. Farming (para-1) [10]

Q.8. What conflict and soliloquy do you see in Chitra? Discuss. [10]

Q.9. Write down a detailed note on the story "The Blessed House" Jumpa Lahiri Bringing out its main theme. [10]

Q.10. Discuss the theme of the interpreter of Maladies. [10]

Student Registration Number

D

COURSE CODE: DENG201
COURSE TITLE: ENGLISH II

Date: 04-Oct-2013 Time: 01:30-04:30
Time Allowed: 3 hours Max. Marks: 80

1. This paper contains 10 questions divided in two parts on 3 pages.
2. Part A is compulsory.
3. In Part B (Questions 2 to 10), attempt any 6 questions out of 9. Attempt all parts of the selected question.
4. The marks assigned to each question are shown at the end of each question in square brackets.
5. Answer all questions in serial order.
6. The student is required to attempt the question paper in English medium only.

PART A

Q1. Answer the following questions:

a) Identify the dependant clauses from the given sentences:
1. Mary had a little lamb whose fleece was white as snow.
2. I remember the house where I was born. [2]

b) Identify the types of the given sentences:
1. Will you help me?
2. Show me your homework. [2]

c) Convert the following affirmative sentences into negative sentences:
1. He was a thief.
2. He kicked the ball. [2]

d) Convert the following affirmative sentences into interrogative sentences:
1. God is great.
2. They have won the match. [2]

e) Write two complex sentences. [2]

f) Add another independent clause to the following independent clauses to form compound sentences:
1. Students can attend day classes and …….
2. I have studied English for six years yet ……. [2]

g) Write the meaning of the given words:
1. Panacea
2. Anarchy [2]

h) Correct the following sentences:
1. Two thousand rupees are a good sum.
2. A large number of people was present there. [2]

i) Make sentence using the given idioms:
1. Lion's share 2. Once in a blue moon [2]

j) Convert the given sentences into passive voice:
1. Open the door.
2. I heard her shouting at the child. [2]

PART B

Q2. i) Transform the following questions into assertive sentences: [5]

a. Is this the way to behave?

b. Is there any place like home?

c. What have we to do with him?

d. Who does not love his parents?

e. Why waste time in idle pursuits?

ii) Change the following assertive sentences into questions: [5]

a. Nothing succeeds like success.

b. The face is the index of mind.

c. A hermit has to do nothing with money.

d. None can put up with such an insult.

e. If you prick us, we bleed.

Q3. Read the given passage and answer the following questions.

Every summer and monsoon, an epidemic of eye flu sweeps the country, affecting almost every family. An eye flu patient may experience symptoms such as redness of the eye, watering, discharge or stickiness of eyelids foreign body sensation, swelling of lids and discomfort. The severity of eye flu varies with some people developing more serious problems if the disease is not diagnosed and treated in time.

According to Dr. Deepak K Gupta, Chief Consultant, Centre for Sight Group of Eye Hospitals, "Eye flu, also Known as conjunctivitis, occurs when the outer layer of the eye gets inflamed. This can happen due to many reasons such as infections with virus, bacteria, parasites or even fungus. Allergies are common in hot, dusty and changing weather conditions and can cause recurrent, chronic episodes of irritation of the eyes. They are seen frequently in children and young adults, and follow a seasonal pattern. Use of cosmetics may worsen the symptoms. Other causes include exposure to toxins/vapours or chemicals. It's important to identify the cause and avoid exposure to the offending agent, which may not be possible in all cases."

Children can catch infection from classrooms and play grounds. They may have a respiratory infection, allergy or fever with the eye symptoms. According to Dr. I.P.Singh, Consultant, Centre for Sight, "People who use contact lenses need to be extra careful. Remove lenses the minute you notice any redness, watering, sensitivity to light pain. Avoid reusing the same pair of lenses. Never use tap water, saline water to clean your lenses."

Answer the following questions: [5×2=10]

a) What are the symptoms of eye flu?
b) How conjunctivitis occurs?
c) What are the effects of cosmetics on eye flu?
d) From where children catch the infections of eye flu?
e) Describe the prescription for lense users who are affected by conjunctivitis.

Q4. Write a short essay on 'The Revolution in Transport and Communication'. (150-200 words) (10)

Q5. Write an essay on the cultural clash as depicted by Jhumpa Lahiri in her 'Interpreter of Maladies'. (150-200 words) [10]

Q6. Discuss the autobiographical elements in 'Ode on Intimations of Immortality'. (150-200 words) [10]

Q7. Write a critical appreciation of 'Night of the Scorpion'. (400 words) [10]

Q8. Read the following lines and explain them. [10]

I wander'd lonely as a cloud
That floats on high o'er vales and hills,
When all at once I saw a crowd,
A host of golden daffodils,
Beside the lake, beneath the trees,
Fluttering and dancing in the breeze.

Continuous as the stars that shine
And twinkle on the Milky Way,
They stretch'd in never-ending line
Along the margin of a bay:
Ten thousand saw I at a glance,
Tossing their heads in sprightly dance.

The waves beside them danced, but they Outdid the sparkling waves in glee:—
A poet could not but be gay
In such a jocund company!
I gazed, and gazed, but little thought
What wealth the show to me had brought:

For oft, when on my couch I lie
In vacant or in pensive mood,
They flash upon that inward eye
Which is the bliss of solitude;
And then my heart with pleasure fills,
And dances with the daffodils.

Q9. Write a critical essay on symbolism in Tagore's 'Chitra'. (150-200 words) [10]

Q10. Write a précis of the given passage. [10]

One great defect of our civilization is that it does not know what to do with its knowledge. Science, as we have seen, .has given us powers fit for the gods, yet we use them like small children. For example: - we do not know how to manage our machines. Machines were made to be man's servants; yet he has grown so dependent on them that they are in a fair way to become his masters. Already most men spend most of their lives looking after and waiting upon machines. And the machines are very stern masters. They must be fed with coal, and given petrol to drink, and oil to wash with, and must be kept at the right temperature. And if they do not get their meals when they expect them, they grow sulky and refuse to work, or burst with rage, and blow up, and spread ruin and destruction all round them, So we have to wait upon them very attentively and do all that we can to keep them In a good temper. Already we find it difficult either to work or play without the machines, and a time may come when they will rule us altogether, just as we rule the animals. (Word: 207)

Student Registration Number

C

COURSE CODE: DENG201
COURSE TITLE: ENGLISH II

Date: 23-Sep-2013 Time: 09:30-12:30
Time Allowed: 3 hours Max. Marks: 80

1. This paper contains 10 questions divided in two parts on 2 pages.
2. Part A is compulsory.
3. In Part B (Questions 2 to 10), attempt any 6 questions out of 9. Attempt all parts of the selected question.
4. The marks assigned to each question are shown at the end of each question in square brackets.
5. Answer all questions in serial order.
6. The student is required to attempt the question paper in English medium only.

PART A

Q1.Answer the following questions as directed:

a) What are coordinating conjunctions? List them in sequential order. [2]

b) Convert the given assertive sentences into Interrogative: [2]

i) God is Great.

ii) They have won the match.

c) Add commas and/or semicolons as necessary: [2]

If housework and childcare are included women work more hours per week than men every place in the world except North America and Australia but they also earn less than men everywhere.

d) Find Errors in the use of Verbs: [2]

i) Bread and butter are my only food.

ii) The jury were of one mind.

e) Separate the Subject and the Predicate: [2]

i) Rome was not built in a day.

ii) Tea is grass in Darjeeling.

f) Change the following Active sentences into Passive: [2]

i) The boy makes toys.

ii) She annoys him.

g) Interchange Affirmative sentence to Negative: [2]

i) This knife is sharp.

ii) You are an intelligent girl.

h) By using a noun or phrase in Apposition join the two simple sentences into one sentence: [2]

i) She is my sister. Her name is Radha.

ii) Kalidas wrote Shakuntala.It is a play in Sanskrit.

i) Combine each pair of sentences by using ‘who’ or ‘whom’: [2]

i) Here comes Miss Tomas. She taught me English.

ii) This is Rajni. She has often helped me.

j) Change from direct to indirect: [2]

i) They said, “We helped our neighbours as much as we could.”

ii) I said, “He cannot contain himself for joy”.

PART B

Q2.Read the following comprehension and answer the questions given below:

The New year is the time for resolution .Mentally, at least most of us could compile formidable lists of ‘do’s and ‘don’ts’. The same old favourites recur year in and year out with the children, do a thousand and one job abut the house, be nice to people we don’t like, drive carefully, and take the dog for a walk every day. Past experience has tahght us that certain accomplishments are beyond attainment. If we remain deep rooted liars, it is only because we have so often experienced the frustration that results from failure.

Most of us fail in our efforts at self improvement because our schemes are too ambitious and we never have time to carry them out. We also make the fundamental error of announcing our resolution to everybody so that we look even more foolish when we slipback into our bad old ways. Aware of these pitfalls, this year I attempted to keep my resolution to myself. I limited myself to two modest ambitions, to do physicat exericese every mornimg and to read more in the evening. An overnight party on New year’s eve provided me with a good excuse for not carrying out eiter of these new resolution on the first day of the year, but on the second, Iapplied myself assiduously to the task.

The daily exercise lasted only eleven minutes and I proposed to do them early in the morning before anyone had got up. The self discipline reqired to drag myself out of bed eleven minutes earlier than usual was considerable. Nevertheless, I managed to creep down into the living room for two days before anyone found me out. After jumping about in the carpet and twisted the human frame into uncomfortable positions. I sat down at the breakfast table in an exhausted condition. It was this that betrayed me. The next morning the whole family trooped into watch the performance. That was really unsettling but I fended off the taunts and jibes of the family good humouredly and soon everybody got used to the idea. However, my enthusiasm waned, the time I spent at exercises gradually diminished. Little by little the eleven minutes fell to zero. By January10th I was back to where I had started from. I argued that if I spent less time exhausting myself at exercises in the morning. I would keep my mind fresh for reading when I got home from work. Resisting the hypnotizing effect of television, Isat in my room for a few evenings with my eyes glued to a book. One night, however, feeling cold and lonely, I went downstairs and sat in front of the television pretending to read. That proved to be my undoing, for I soon got back to the old bad habit of dozing off in front of the screen. I still haven't given up my resolution to do more reading. In fact, I have just bought a book entitled 'How to Read a Thousand Words a Minute'. Perhaps it will solve my problem, but Ijust have not had time to read it.

Q1. Why most of us fail in our efforts for self-improvement? (2)
Q2. Why is it a basic mistake to announce our resolution to everybody? (2)
Q3. Why did the writer not carry out his resolution on New Year's Day? (3)
Q4. Find out the words in the above passage which convey the similar meaning to the following:
(a) Overwhelming (b) Drawbacks (c) Decrease (3) [10]

Q3. Write a short essay on the topic "What invention would the world be better off without, and why?" in 350-400 words. [10]
Q4. Discuss the significance of Partition as a theme in Interpreter of Maladies. [10]
Q5. Discuss 'Intimations of Immortality' as a philosophical poem. [10]
Q6.Write one word substitution for the following : [10]

i) A person sent on an official mission.
ii) One who abandons his religious faith
iii) Being all-powerful
iv) One who hates mankind
v) One who believes in fate
vi) A member of a council
vii) A speech made without preparation viii) Give tit for tat.
ix) All of one mind
x) The medical study of the skin and its disease.

Q7. A) Write the synonyms of: [5]

i) Accuse
ii) Cajole
iii) Ethnic
iv) Hoodwink
v) Nervous

B) Write the antonyms of: [5]

i) backward
ii) disgust
iii) Entice
iv) Humble
v) Noisy

Q8. Write the meaning of the following: [10]

i) Trump up
ii) A red letter day
iii) Bad blood
iv) To change hands
v) To hold water
vi) A storm in a tea cup
vii) To set Thames on fire viii) Not cricket
ix) Small fry
x) Snake in the grass

Q9.Sketch the different images of India that you can see in the poem 'Night of the Scorpion'. [10]
Q10. Discuss the element of symbolism in Tagore's play Chitra. [10]